East Hawaii Health Cancer Center (EHHCC) Immunotherapy Discharge Instructions

Immunotherapy uses the body's immune system to fight cancer. Therefore, it could have its own set of immune-related side effects. These side effects could happen at any time!

Please notify East Hawaii Health Cancer Center immediately if you experience the following:

1. Diarrhea for more than two days despite the use of Imodium, or severe stomach pain.
2. New or worsening cough; shortness of breath, wheezing, or trouble breathing.
3. Extreme tiredness.
4. Rashes; itching.
5. Blurred or double vision.
6. Fever, rapid heart rate, low blood pressure, confusion (cytokine release syndrome)

If you need to go to the Emergency Room, remember to take your immunotherapy card or inform them that you are currently receiving immunotherapy from us here at East Hawaii Health Cancer Center. This is very important as it may change your treatment care while at Hilo Medical Center.
